The new catalogue of the Y. M. C. A. library has been presented to us, and we notice that it contains many new and popular works, as well as complete sets of the old standard authors. Any one wishing good reading would do well to examine these catalogues, which can be obtained at the rooms of the association.

Dr. Ash and Mr. Peters, of the city council of Pittsburg, with Mr. S. Dempster, the city engineer, have been in this city, the guests of some of the members of the Board of Public Works. They were under instructions of their city gov. They were under instructions of their city government to thoroughly examine the system of improvements here, and the various pavements, &c., in use, with a view to their introduction in

The Temporary Interruption to Travel by the Great Rain Storm. The Washington Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Baltimore and Potomac railreads were both damaged by the heavy rain storm which has prevailed in this vicinity for the past two days. On the Baltimore and Ohio road a culvert was washed out near Hanover Switch, and in seme of the cuts the rails were covered with sand. The New York train, due here about 5% o'clock last evening, did not arrive here until about 7% o'clock p. m. The cause of its detention was not, however, damage to that road, but to the Philadelphia and Wilmington road. The 9:20 p. m. train north left here on time last night, but was detained by the break at Hanover until this morning. No train arrived at this depot until about 1 p. m. to-day, when the New York through train to-day, when the New York through train arrived. By advertisement elsewhere it will be seen that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and all its branches are all right now, and that all the trains are again running on schedule time.

The Metropolitan Branch was not damaged.

The Baltimore and Potemac road sent out its last train for Baltimore at 6.25 last evening, and this morning the local train left at 8.45, reached Odenton, but in consequence of a cultural between Odenton and Severn having been washed out about midnight, and some slight damage to the track rear Stoney run it did damage to the track near Stoney run, it did not proceed farther north than Odenton. This will be repaired in the course of the day, and it is probable that the trains will be running as usual this evening. The wires on this road were down this morning, but they will be repaired immediately. The trains on the Pope's Creek line, and on the Alexandria and Washington, and Alexandria and Fredericksburg trains are running as usual.

REORGANIZATION OF THE SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT REPUBLICAN CLUB.—A meeting of the 17th district republicans was held last night at the Island Hall. Mr. Joseph Williams, president, called the meeting to order, and in a few remarks stated that the call was to reorganize for the campaign. He declined a reelection as presiding officer, and urged that no nomination for a candidate for the House of Delegates be made until such time as is recommended by the central committee. Mr. Chas. H. Marshrill was elected chairman, and Thos. Commodore was elected chairman, and Thos. Commodore secretary.

Secretary.

Nominations for a permanent president were then made as follows: Perry H. Carson, Henry Brooks, Joseph Williams, Charles H. Marshall, F. A. Boswell, John H. Webster and others, all of whom declined excepting Messrs, Carson and Marshall, and on the vote being taken the result was—Carson 28, Marshall 43, and Mr. Marshall was declared elected. On taking the chair he returned thanks, and asked the support of he returned thanks, and asked the support of the club. The remaining officers of the club were elected as follows: Thos. BEAUTIFUL RURAL HOMES AND BUILDING SITES.—Of all the country surrounding answithin sight of this city, there is none more at within sight of this city, there is none more attractive and beautifully located, it is conceded by all who have visited it, than "North Arlington Heights," above Georgetown, on the south side of the Potomac. From this point a perfect "bird's eye view" of Washington, Georgetown and the surrounding country for miles can be seen,—much more extended and perfect than from any locality on the north side of the river, and a more perfectly healthy locality cannot be found east of the Rocky mountains. It lies about three hundred feet above the river, thus securing pure and dry air, perfectly free from the miasma so prevalent in the low lands, especially near a river. As is announced to-day in our advertising columns, these valuable highour advertising columns, these valuable high-lands have recently been subdivided into lots of from one to twenty acres each by our enter-prising friend, Mr. Robert A. THE 14TH STREET SEWER CAVES AGAIN. Early this morning a portion of the street pavement in front of the New York Herald bu-reau, on 14th street, fell in with a tremendous crash. An examination revealed the fact that the ground along the line of sewer extending from F street to the avenue, had undoubtedly undermined, (in consequence probably of a break in the work,) and for the security of re-hicles that half of the street on which the sewer is located was fenced in. It will be remembered that some six years ago, just after this sewer had been completed a service section. b en completed, a similar accident has by which Mr. U. H. Ridenour's horse ilar accident hap and was carried through the sewer, and made his exit at its mouth, then running into the canal. There is a spring of water—an unfail-ing spring, running through the ground in this locality, and that this has undermined the sewer, by gradually washing away the earth, is likely. But the sewer, which was built in the old municipal days, has always been a source of complaint and days. complaint and danger.

LOST CHILD -- A colored child, apparently three years old, was found on the streets this morning and kindly taken care of by Mrs. Brown, No. 721 15th street. The little fellow Brown, No. 721 15th street. The little fellow was crying bitterly and suffering from a severe chill when found, having spent the whole night in the streets during the heavy rain. He could give no further account of himself than that his name is "William," that he has no father or mother, and that he got his breakfast yesterday from "Aunt Mary." He states that his mother went away one day and never came back, and the away one day and never came back, and the supposition is that she was one of the victims on the Wawaset. Here is a chance for the benevolent to exercise their philanthropy in the care of this little wair.

Cases in which Magistrates on the Police Court Have no Jurisdiction. John Biown, colored, who was committed to jail on Saturday last, by Justice Weaver, in default of Saturday last, by Justice Weaver, in default of furnishing bail to support the illegitimate child of Susan Turner, was before Judge Humphreys on a writ of habeas corpus, and the case was argued by Mr Livingston Browning. Judge Humphreys decided that the magistrate exceeded his jarisdiction in sending the man to jail in default of $80 judgment, as the laws imprisoning for debt in this District have been prisoning for debt in this District have been abelished. Hazard and Daniel Lynch, the latter having been disinterred where it was buried above Chatterton, and the former brought up from near Hampstead, two miles below Mathias Point, King George county, Va., and about twelve miles below the scene of the disaster. LONG AND SUCCESSFUL SEARCH FOR THE BODY

OF MR. HAZARD.

It is probable that the body of Mr. Hazard sunk in the channel and rose on the ebb tide, and was carried down to the point named. The body floated ashore Sunday night, and was buried on Menday morning last, after having been identified by a pocket knife belonging to the son of the deceased, Harvey Hazard, on which was engraved a Masonic emblem, and some papers found in his pocket designating the street and number of his residence in Washington. Mr. Hazard was a native of King George county, Va., and had not visited his old home for nearly forty years. On board the tug last night were the two sons of Mr. Hazard—Harvev and Willie—also, Mr. G. W. Pratt, his son-in-law, all of whom have been in constant search for their father's body since the disaster. On Sunday they spent the entire day on the Virginia shore, running from point to point whenever they could hear of a body being drawn from the water. On Monday they got a boatman to set them across on the Marvland tile. LONG AND SUCCESSFUL SEARCH FOR THE BODY whenever they could hear of a body being drawn from the water. On Monday they got a beatman to set them across on the Maryland side, near Nanjemoy, where they traversed the shore down to near Port Tobacco, and returning extended their searches to above Maryland Point, and then recrossed the river to the fish-houses this side of Chatterton, and after getting refreshments laid down to get a recreated. ish-houses this side of Chatterton, and after getting refreshments laid down to get some rest at the house of a Mr. Grant, and were awakened Tuesday morning and told that the body of their father had been found about a mile below Mathias' Point and twelve below Chatterton. Thither they turned their steps, and arrived after a tedlous journey, and had the body disinterred. They were much gratified to find it in a remarkable state of pres-ervation, very likile changed in ampearance gratified to find it in a remarkable state of preservation, very little changed in appearance, free of bruises, and not touched by the crabs. Capt. Gedney, who heard of the finding of the remains while at Chatterton, dispatched his tug with a coffin, in which the body was placed and brought to this city, as stated above. These young gentlemen have shown wonderful energy and perseverance under a chain of difficulties, from their first landing on Saturday night at Stewart's wharf until their arrival last night. They are all three nearly exhausted physically, and had it not been for meeting good friends, though strangers to them, they would hardly have stood it so well.

THE REBURIAL OF THE DEAD AT CHATTER-

THE REBURIAL OF THE DEAD AT CHATTER-TON LANDING.

Captain Wood arrived last night on the tug with Captain Gedney. He spent the day at Chatterton landing, doing what he could to have the dead properly buried. He says the heavy rain prevented much progress yesterday. The site selected for the burial ground is on a high bluff about twenty yards from the bank, and in an open field surrounded with trees, at Chatterton. The work of reinterment will be continued to-day, and it is thought all will be continued to-day, and it is thought all will be finished by to-night. A piece of the dress, a shoe, or other article by which friends will be able to identify bodies are retained in each case. Yesterday, a breastpin was found on one of the colored women which had been over-locked when the body was temporarily buried. Captain Gedney and President Howison, of the ferry company, are extending all the facil-ities in their power, in procuring transporta-tion of bodies recovered to the surviving friends wherever they may be. THREE MORE MISSING PEOPLE.

A colored woman named Gray, residing on Washington street, between 4th and 5th, was on the ill-fated steamer with her child, and no tidings have been heard of either.

Mr. Z. Richards writes that Matilda Hayne, who has been in his employ for six years past, was on the steamer to visit her parents. STORY OF ANOTHER SURVIVOR-AN OLD COL-

Retrocession of Alexandria.

THE POTOMAC.

At the meeting of the Common Council of Alexandria held Tuesday night, Judge Underwood, of the Eoard of Aldermen, in opposing an appropriation for the erection of a marine hospital in that city, is reported by the Alexandria Sentinel to have said that "the should, under ordinary circumstances, be in favor of the erection of a hospital; which he considered necessary in the highest sense. But the financial pressure upon our people has been very severe of late, and it would be, perhaps, inexpedient to add just now to the already heavy expenditures lately made. But there is another reason stronger still. There will be a serious efformade by our neighbors across the river a change the existing status of this city and county. The Judge then related an interview he had had with Governor Cooke and Chief Justice Cartier, of the District, from which he had learned that they had determined on the WHAT IS SAID ABOUT IT ON BOTH SIDES OF had learned that they had determined on the move. Judge Cartter had pronounced the act of retrocession of '46 unconstitutional and void, and they would make a test case by getting and they would make a test case by getting some citizen of Alexandria to refuse to pay his taxes, and file a bill for an injunction against their collection by the state of Virginia. They preferred that mode to proceeding in a criminal case, by habeas corpus. Judge Cartter did not hesitate to say he would grant the injunction. The Board of Public Works thought it necessary to have both sides of the river, as the Board of Health had concluded the swamps on the Virginia side were the cause of much of the Board of Health had concluded the swamps on the Virginia side were the cause of much of the malarious sickness in Washington. If done, Congress will probably take hold of the matter and provide a hospital better than we can build. The effort will probably be made in the fall, and we had better wait its result. Should it fail the Judge said he would heartly favor the hospital. He also remarked that the change, if made, would very seriously affect him. the hospital. He also remarked that the change, if made, would very seriously affect him, and necessitate his resignation of the judgeship, or removal, and said he had looked at the Globe of the date of the act of retrocession, and found that Col. Footwalks have been ordered to be laid on F street, between 4½ and 7th streets southwest. The work of setting curbs, laying footwalks, and paving the carriageway with blue rock on Maryland avenue, from 7th street to the Long Bridge, has been ordered to be commenced at once, and completed in forty-five days. Messrs. Wholley & Brainard have been awarded the contract for constructing the sea-walls for James creek, from the head of James creek canal, near Virgunia avenue, to the Arsenal grounds. A wall is to be constructed on each side, distant 60 feet between them, on pile foundations, the front row five feet from center to center, the piles not to be less than twelve inches in diameter, straight, bark removed, and to be driven home with a ram of not less than five hundred pounds weight, the last ten blows of such ram, of not less than ten feet fall, must produce no further perceptible sinking of the piles. The same to be driven home as described, whatever length of pile and whatever number of splicings may be required. After being driven home they are to be sawed of one foot and six inches below mean low water mark to a uniform level, ready to receive the sills. There is to be an anchorage row of piles in the rear of the above-described row, twenty feet inland, fifteen feet apart in the row, of the same dimensions. A row of sheet piles are then to be driven timediately in rear of the front piles, of white pine, six inches at the butt end and ten feet long, to be driven after the plates have been laid on the front piles, and are to be sawed off level with the top of the plate. The sheet piles are to be driven after the plates have been laid on the front piles, and are to be sawed off level with the top of the plate. The Magistrates and Constables.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATIVE INVESTI-GATING COMMITTEE.

Yesterday, after our report closed, the Long committee to investigate magistrates, &c., took the testimony of Robert Johnson, a fireman, who testified that on one occasion he employed A. B. Williams as coursed who offer a second who testified that on one occasion he employed A. B. Williams as counsel, who afterward associated with him F. P. Closs; agreed to pay $30 for the services of both gentlemen, to which proposition they consented; paid $20 on account, for which Mr. Williams gave him a receipt; told Mr. Williams that he would pay the remaining $10 as soon as he received his salary from the fire department; the next he heard of the matter he was summoned by Constable Lacey to appear at the court of Justice Clark to answer the suit of Closs and Williams; appeared and asked that the case be continued for one week; this was granted, and when he appeared at the asked that the case be continued for one week; this was granted, and when he appeared at the appointed time he found that the case had been heard the day before; complained that injustice had been done, and Justice Clark concluded to reopen the case the following Thursday; appeared on Thursday at 10 a.m.; Clark said that Closs and Williams wanted the case heard at 1 p.m., and told him to return at that hour; witness replied that it was impossible for him to attend at 1 p. m., as it was inspection. for him to attend at 1 p. m., as it was impossible day, and the whole fire department were or-dered out; Clark said that it could not be dered out; Clark said that it could not be helped, and the case was tried at 1 p. m., in the absence of witness, and Clark gave judgment against deponent for $30; subsequently Constable Lacey levied upon some harness owned by defendant, but witness having noted an appeal to court, and filed his bond, it was returned to him; deponent has always believed that there existed a collusion between Closs, Williams, Clark and Lacey to force upon him snap judgment, and make him pay $30, when only $10 was really due. was really due.

Justice Clark, who was present, denied any Justice Clark, who was present, denied any and all improper motives and influences in the matter; the day of hearing was misunderstood by the defendant, and as he did not appear, of course judgment was rendered against him.

This morning, the committee resumed its session, and took the fellowing testimony:
Lieut. Kelly testified that Dosh was arrested Lieut. Kelly testified that Dosh was arrested on a charge of grand larceny preferred by Barber; that it appeared on the trial that Dosh had the property by the consent of Barber, and it was dismissed, and the court ordered the property to be turned over to Dosh. Witness found that the wagon and harness had been taken to Barber's; went and got it, Mrs. Barber threatening if Dosh came in she would run a knife into him. Barber was at the Police Court before the trial, and was told him to remain there.

JOHNSON, THE FIREMAN.

The case of Johnson's complaint agt Justice Clark and Constable Lacey was next heard, and Mr. F. P. Gloss testified that Robert Johnson and Alice Johnson were arrested for keeping a bawdy house. Johnson employed Williams and a friend of Alice employed affiant, but no money was paid him, and Johnson promised to be security for his fee, $29. Johnson paid Williams $20 on their mutual account, and after the trial of the case in the Police Court it was appealed, and they appeared for her in the Criminal Court, and subsequently Johnson promised to pay them for such extra services but failed to keep his promise. They then sued him for the amount.

Mr. A. B. Williams corroborated this testimony.

Constable Lacey testified as to his connection with the case that the bill was placed in his hands; went to Johnson, and he promised to pay it; saw him several times, and finally, under instructions, sued him, and judgment was given; asked for an execution, and Justice Clark refused it on the ground that he had granted a rehearing, and at the justice's request informed Mr. Closs, and also notified Johnson when the case would be heard, and he said "all right." There was no collusion whatever between the justice, Closs and himself. The full fees he would be entitled to in replevy cases is about $8.50 cach. Mr. A. B. Williams corroborated this testi-

George Hadson, disturbing the quiet of Georgetown; $5. Samed Lee, wagon without license; $10. Eliza Young, a colored woman, was fined $1 for contempt of court in not answering a summons of the court. David Cartis, larceny of two sheets and souse chemises from parties unknown; jail 30 days. Jerry Johnson, assault and battery on Charles Mysers, who testified that Jerry thrashed him for treating a colored woman to a piece of pie in Shea's den, on the corner of Louse sliey; $3 and costs. Jesse Burchell, assault and battery on Doc Alexander with intent to kill, pleaded guilty, and was committed for the grand jury.

A HINT FOR THE MAGISTRATES' INVESTIGATING CONMITTEE.

Julia Lee, charged by Lucinda Henry with using profance language in the street. This was one of the many cases presented daily at this court, founded on a magistrate's warrant. A little ill-will had been brewing for some time between those parties, which led to an an altercation and the warrant. Lucinda, the cemplainant, on being questioned by the prosecuting attorney, stated that she was a seamstress, and worked for one dollar per week; that she paid one Simon Joseph, a young magistrate, one dollar for the warrant, but she on mature reflection, did not care to procecute the case. It was too late to talk of withdrawing the charge, so Julia was fined $5. On enquiry of the Attorney for the District, it is found that the average number of cases daily coming before him, founded on magistrate's warrants, before him, founded on magistrate warrant for nothing. This is one point which the Legislative investigating committee should inquire into. The truth is that some half-dozen magistrates in this District are so used to charging for services that they could go the police court and get the warrant for nothing. This is one point which the Legislative investigating committee should inquire into.

An Elopement in Brooklyn High Life.—
Brooklyn upper-tendom is agitated over an elopement in high life, the parties being the only daughter of a wealthy merchant doing business in this cuty, but residing on Hicks street, near the Mansion House, in the City of Churches, and the son of an equally wealthy politician of the same city. The young gentleman in question has long been a suitor for the young lady, but his attentions have been discouraged in every possible manner by her parents. His business calling him to Europe about two months ago, he proposed, and being accepted by his inamorata, hastened to inform the old gentleman and ask his consent to the nuptials. He was politely shown to door. On Tuesday morning last the young lady ordered the carriage and started to dress herself, ostensibly for a drive. Her unusually elaborate toilet attracted the attention of her aunt, who happened to be in the room, but the young lady passed it off with some careless remark. Late the same afternoon the coachman returned alone, bearing a note descriptive of the young couple's gorgeous marriage at the house of the young gentleman's parents. It stated that the ceremony had been performed by a Unitarian clergyman, in the absence of the Rev. Dr. Van Dyke, at whose church both families worship, and that the writer and her husband would wait forgiveness at the Brevoort House, New York. There was wrath in that family that evening, and up to the present the happy pair have received no sign that the old gent has AN ELOPEMENT IN BROOKLYN HIGH LIFE.evening, and up to the present the happy pair have received no sign that the old gent has relented.—N. Tue New German Army.—The manufac-ture of the Mauserrifle for the German army is ture of the Mauser rifle for the German army is proceeding so rapidly that a private memorandum has recently been issued laying down the order in which it is to be issued to the six army corps about to receive it. The list begins with the guards, and proceeds successively to the third, second, tenth, eighth, and eleventh regiments. The ordinary summer course of musketry instruction at Spandau is not to be held this year, the whole force of the school being devoted to instructing the detachments about to be sent there in the use of the new weapon. Every infantry and rifle battallion in the six corps above mentioned has been directed to send one officer, two sergeants, and an armorer sergeant to Spandau for this purpose. These will take the places lately filled by similar detachments, which have been under training from every cavalry regiment which is to receive the new breech loader. lar detachments, which have been under training from every cavalry regiment which is to receive the new breech-loader made from the captured chassepots converted into carbines. All dragoon, huzzar and uhlan regiments have been thus prepared, and therefore, presumably are to continue to carry fire-arms. The short needle puns hitherto in use by these various sorts of light cavalry are to be handed over to the men of the transport train. The number of field guns of the new patterns, finally approved, is also being completed. Under the new organization of the artillery, they will require a supply of 2,346 guns, there being 391 batteries in all.

A Boy's Engine of Mischief .- The boys of A BOY'S ENGINE OF MISCHIEF.—The boys of Lynchburg, Va., have been puzzling and annoying the police and all good citizens by loud explosions, attended with some injuries to property, in different portions of the city. At last the police have succeeded in getting possession of one of the infernal machines, which is thus described: A heavy beer or ale bottle is filled with gunpowder. It is then wrapped tightly with strips of cotton cloth; over this twine is tightly coiled, then a quantity of paper is wrapped around it, and another complete cov-ering of stout hemp twine is put around very compactly. In the neck of the bottle a fuse is fixed, and the machine is attached to a lampfixed, and the machine is attached to a tamp-post, awning-post, or some such support, the fuse lighted and the fireman makes a hasty re-treat. The bottle explodes with a report almost equal to a cannon, and the fragments of glass are strawn in every direction. Windows are are strewn in every direction. Windows are jarred and broken, and families alarmed—while the danger from the fragments of flying glass can be comprehended.

A STRONG ALUM WATER is a sure death to bugs of any description. Take two pounds of pulverized alum, and dissolve in three quarts of boiling water, allowing it to remain over the fire until thoroughly dissolved. Apply, while hot, with a brush, or, what is better, use a syringe to force the hquid in the cracks of the walls and bedstead. Scatter also the powdered alum freely in all these places, and you will soon be rid of these insect nuisances which fill one with disgust. one with disgust.

DARK GREY SLATE, such as is used for covering roofs, writing slates, &c., has recently been discovered on the Crawford springs property, owned by Mr. Patterson. There has also been found, at the same place, a variety of Tennessee marble, which is susceptible of a good polish.—Staunton Speciator.

I have been grumbling a good deal at the persimmon lately, seeing every tree, big and little, breeding caterpillars. But it occurred to me that it might be its humble miss to sacrifice itself to save the nobler fruits That is to say, if the caterpillars preter the persimmon to the apple why not give them all the persimmon they want? Arabic water is called "the gift of God," then certainly we may say now, "with lavish kind-ness the gift of God is strewn." When will agriculture invent a means to utilize this surprurain and hoard it up for seasons of drought? The other night—it didn't rain then, as I was napping, I thought I heard a tapping, then awoke to hear the sounding, of one vigorously pounding, just beneath my chamber door. 'Tis not a visitor, I muttered, it must be a borrower, and I fear me that I swore, at being awakened by a poun ding for only this and nothing more. I was agreeably surprised at seeing two old New York chums, who had walked out from town to see me. They smiled at my asking if they were tired, those robust fellows who had walked through New York and New England and half over Switzerland afoot. I like to see a fellow that knows how to build a railroad and how to run the engine, and yet disdain them, too. Your engineers are all walkers. But this is digressing. They asked me why I could not make a pond or reservoir which would catch the overplus from the hills, and be used when needed. They described how it is done in Madeira, (a place where banans are five for a cent, and yet they talk of hard times!) where all the crops are grown by irrigation, and we know how common it is at the west. To be sure, they catch the drippings of the mountains, but I believe the day will come when we will prize, and, by cooperation, save the overplus of waters of our hills. Then will the followers of husbandry rejoice.

EXPERIMENTS WITH SMALL DOSES .- French EXPERIMENTS WITH SMALL DOSES.—French experiments, made with a view to determine how minute a dose of poison will produce decided medicinal effects, present some interesting results, and are of real medical importance. It appears that the blood of an ox which had been dead ten days was used in the test. Having innoculated a rabbit with this blood-poison, the doctor took the blood of that rabbit, and so on to the twenty-fifth generation that had died. The result proved that the one-trillionth part of a drop ef decayed blood injected subdermally—under the skin—sufficed to poison a rabbit. From this, though it does not appear whether there was any repetition of the test, to confirm it or not, dissecting surgeons can perceive that there was any repetition of the test, to confirm it or not, dissecting surgeons can perceive that though the dissecting-knife may be clean to the eye, it may yet hold an invisible atom of death-poison, sufficient to infect the circulation, if the operator should by accident even prick his
